Main Points: Attachment difficulties require powerful tools for intervening in the therapy office and in the home. Neither can be neglected, nor can either one function in a vacuum without the other. Attachment and bonding are critical junctures in relationship building, and without these, a child is at risk for mental health problems, social, educational and relationship difficulties throughout his or her life. Because the earliest attachment experiences set the brain structure that sets the tone for all future relationships, this relational material is essential to process and resolve. These early experiences also set the foundation for affect regulation or dysregulation. Daniel Seigel states: “We carry the synaptic shadows of these early experiences forward”. Behavioral, cognitive, affective, sensory based and play/art based interventions through the lens of a primary relationship can impact the child’s ability to regulate the self.

Effective parenting principals are the absolute fundamental structure of treating the child with an attachment disorder. Both parents and professionals must familiarize themselves with the specialized techniques and skills that are necessary to parenting this population. Specific hands-on principles and techniques are necessary to help a child with trauma, attachment, and oppositional behavioral disorders develop a healthier and more secure attachment to parents and caregivers.

Attachment disorders are different from other types of mental health issues. They also require specialized treatment that is quite different from contemporary talk-therapy. It is important to understand the differences, and why these differences are imperative to the client who is suffering from trauma-induced attachment difficulties.

Dissociation is linked to disorganized and anxious attachment styles. Dissociation in both children and adults is known and diagnosable factor in many mental health disorders, and yet it is rarely treated effectively due to a lack of understanding and training in clinical settings. If a child or adult is suffering from dissociation and it is not treated, it can become a debilitating lifelong problem. But early detection and treatment is very successful when the right tools are employed.

General Information about Adult Attachment:

Some of the symptoms:

- Avoidant– Unreasonable or inappropriate anger; Hostile; Overcritical of others and self; Intolerant of rules and authority; Lack of empathy or remorse; Views others as untrustworthy and unreliable; Shallow/Vain; Feelings of self-importance; Feelings of entitlement or arrogance; Self-reliance; prefers to work alone than with other; Views relationships as threatening, or not worth the effort; May be a workaholic, as a way of avoiding relationships; Feelings of being unique; Grandiose or unrealistic fantasies.
- Anxious/Ambivalent-Compulsive caregiving; Feels underappreciated; Many short-term relationships; Idealizes others; Possessive-makes unrealistic demands of relationships; Preoccupied with relationships, and easily makes declarations of affection; Obtains feelings of security through relationships; Oversensitive to rejection, easily gives in to jealousy.
- Prone to depression
- Socially inappropriate behavior
- Impulsive
- Manipulative
- Risk-taking
- Self-mutilating behavior
- At risk of abusing their own children
- Children with Reactive Attachment Disorder may become adults diagnosed with sociopathic, narcissistic, antisocial or borderline disorder

About Alaska Attachment & Bonding Associates

AABA is a non-profit organization that provides education, training, support and advocacy for kinship, adoptive and foster families who care for children with emotional disorders, such as Reactive Attachment Disorder (RAD) and professionals who work with this population of children.

AABA's area of Focus:

- PREVENTION of abuse/neglect
- PLACEMENT information
- EDUCATION in Attachment
- COMMUNITY resource information

WHAT drives AABA?

AABA is passionate about traumatized children.

AABA has first hand experience with Attachment Disorder children and knows the Special care and treatment needed to help these children learn, love and trust.

Left untreated, children with Attachment Disorder and other emotional disorders are often times shipped to out-of-state Residential Treatment Centers (RTC's), are likely to become emotionally disturbed adults, unemployable, and are likely to be involved in drugs, alcohol or other illegal activities.

WHY should you care?

Because this is a preventable disorder and will take the community working together!

"BECAUSE THIS IS YOUR HOME" !
